

Adrian Davies MCIPS, SCMA

Adrian Davies is a chartered supply chain professional with 40 years of experience managing global supply chains across a variety of sectors, including Nuclear. He's excited about the growth ahead for the Nuclear industry in Canada, and recognizes the importance of working together as a Nuclear family. Having built supply chains from the ground up, Adrian is adept at operational procurement, strategic development, supply chain transformation, and process improvement and he builds strong relationships with suppliers, ensuring a team approach. Early engagement and transparency are hallmarks of his success.

Adrian's motto is that we stand strong – and succeed – together, and it's with that mindset that he is looking forward to being part of the OCNI board, to shape decisions, and to build strong relationships with fellow OCNI-member companies.
